Wentworth Male Academy.

This institution owes its existence to the munificence of Stephen G. Wentworth, a citizen of Lexington. Wishing to erect a monument "more lasting than brass" to the memory of his deceased son, William Wentworth, he purchased the property necessary for a beginning, and founded Wentworth Male Academy.

In April, 1881, a charter was secured and the school was authorized to confer such degrees and marks of distinction as are usually granted by literary institutions.

A board of trustees was appointed, consisting of members of the different Protestant churches of Lexington, and the management of the school was given to them. From year to year, as the needs of the school have demanded, Mr. Wentworth has contributed new facilities until he has more than trebled his original donation. The citizens of Lexington and of Lafayette county have not been idle in their support, but have encouraged the enterprise by liberally patronizing the school and by giving money to aid in the erection of new buildings.

The Academy has been in operation five years, and during that time it has steadily grown. The experimental years of its history are passed, and its foundation is now securely laid.

Announcement.

LEXINGTON, Mo, July 21st, 1885.

In the school year just closed. Wentworth Male Academy has made another stride towards success. The doubts which necessarily hang over any new enterprise have all cleared away and the school is gaining the confidence of the people and is becoming more widely known every day.

Notwithstanding the depression in business of all kinds, last session was a decided advance upon the preceding year; in improved facilities, in patronage, and in the work done.

The enrollment of the year was 85 and of these 32 were boarders, this number being all that the old boarding house could accommodate and the new barracks not being completed when the session began.

Our new quarters were entered in December and the increased room together with the ample play grounds gave every reason for satisfaction with the change.

The people of Lexington have shown their appreciation of the school by contributing liberally of their means to aid in the erection of new buildings on this excellent property, given by Mr. Wentworth a year ago.

After considering, during the first years of the school's history, the wants of our patrons and the extent of our ability we have definitely determined the amplitude of our course of study, and at the close of last session we graduated two students.

In future the management of the boarding department will be directly under the charge of the principal, and a matron has been secured to attend to the duties of housekeeper. Our patrons will regret to learn that Mrs. Neale will no longer be connected with the school; and, although we deplore the necessity for giving her up, we confidently believe that we have secured a lady who can in every way fill her place. Mrs. S. P. Metcalfe, recently in charge of the Woman's Christian Home in St. Louis has been engaged.

Prof. Thomas will continue as one of the teachers and as commandant of the military department.

Prof. Buchanan's place will be filled by a suitable man. We are now in correspondence with a number of first class men from whom we will soon select a good teacher.

Mr. Lee Davis, a graduate of the Academy, having taken the scholarship medal one year ago, and having pursued the post-graduate course last session, will, while pursuing his own studies, assist us in teaching, if the demands of next session require it.

Having gained each year on the preceding one, we look forward with confidence to the session which will soon open, feeling that the same providence that has presided over the interests of the school in the past will continue to do so.

With an appeal to the friends of education for their continued sympathy and support, with a profound sense of the responsibility resting upon us in this great work, and with feelings of deepest gratitude to Almighty God for the prosperity of the past and bright outlook for the future, we close our announcement for 1885.

Remarks upon the Course of Study.

Three courses of study have been arranged, the Business, the Elective and the Classical. To those who, for lack of means, time, or inclination, do not wish to complete a classical education, the first two are offered, and a complete preparation for business life may be obtained from either. In the business course it will be seen that three years are given to the study of Book-keeping and Commercial Law. This affords an opportunity of taking up the subject early and of having considerable practical work, and, at the same time, other studies are pursued without interference.

The Elective course is very popular on account of the options given.

The Classical course is intended for those preparing for a thorough college course.

In all departments thoroughness rather than scope will be one aim. Our curriculum has been brought within strict academic range that we may be able to accomplish more thoroughly the work undertaken.

Every parent or guardian upon entering a pupil should let us know as definitely as possible the nature of the education intended for him, how long he is to be kept at school and whether he is to be prepared for professional or business life. It is very necessary that we have this information in order to proceed intelligently in our classification.

Music.

The fundamental principles of music will be taught and daily exercises in vocal music will be held, in which all the pupils will take part.

Elocution.

In response to the desire of all parents that their boys learn to speak in public, and believing that the ability to express one's ideas forcibly and with ease in public or in private, should constitute a part of every boy's education, we have always tried to pay due attention to this department of learning and have always had it studied as a science and practiced as an art under the direction of competent teachers.

As an auxiliary to this work

A Literary and Debating Society has been in successful operation for several years. A library and reading room is also operated in connection with the society. A number of standard works and Chambers' Cyclopedia have been secured, and each year many of the leading periodicals are taken.

Examinations.

In addition to frequent reviews and quarterly examinations there will be held, at the end of each five months, rigid written examinations on the studies pursued during the term. These examinations not only indicate whether or not the pupil's attainments are such as to justify his promotion in class, but they also necessitate such a course of preparation as will enable him to grasp the subject as a connected whole. We discourage the practice so prevalent and commonly known as "cramming," preferring to direct the efforts of the pupil toward a knowledge of the under-lying principles rather than toward the committing to memory of a multitude of unconnected facts.

At the end of each five weeks a report of the standing of each pupil in scholarship, punctuality and deportment will be sent to his parent or guardian; and also a report of his relative standing as compared with all other pupils of the school.

Prizes.

At least three gold medals will be awarded at the end of the session, for highest grade in different branches of study and in punctuality and deportment. At the end of each month a competitive drill will be held for a gold medal, to be worn by him who wins it during the following month. It is important for any who expect to compete for these to be present at the beginning of the session.

Graduation.

Those who complete satisfactorily any one of the courses of study, and whose deportment during connection with the school has been good, may, upon payment of the graduation fee of five dollars, be awarded a Certificate of Proficiency.

Military Department.

Until recently the benefits derived from that form of school discipline, which lodges part of the governmental power in the governed, have been confined almost entirely to military schools; but of late, owing to the trouble arising from hazing and other forms of insubordination, some of the eastern colleges are making a trial of this plan by allowing representative students to join the faculty in measures of discipline. In this we see an indorsement of the chief features of the military system in schools by the highest educational authorities in our country.

four — During ~~three~~ years we have had this feature connected with our school, and from it we have derived most gratifying results. We have incorporated it not with a view of training our pupils for military life, but on account of the advantages derived from it, and which can be best set forth by quoting from the catalogue of the Bingham School in North Carolina. This school is nearly a century old, and is one of the most famous schools in the United States.

Major Bingham says: "We think the military feature best for boys, for the following reasons:

1. "We get boys to learn decidedly more with, than we could without the military organization.
2. "We get boys to behave decidedly better with, than we could without the military organization.
3. "It cultivates, beyond any other kind of organization, the habit of immediate, implicit and unquestioning obedience to orders.
4. "It cultivates, beyond any other kind of organization, the habit of order, neatness, punctuality and self-reliance.
5. "The drill is very fine physical training, especially for such boys as are inclined to confine themselves too closely to books.
6. "The uniform is not only an auxiliary to discipline, but it is also the CHEAPEST GENTEEL CLOTHING a youth can wear, repressing extravagance in dress, and doing away with those invidious distinctions in outward appearance which are so mortifying to all young people.
7. "And lastly and especially, in the Cadet officers, selected by the superintendent from among the oldest, the most orderly and the most earnest of the student body, the Faculty have among the Cadets themselves a compact and most efficient body of allies in promoting good, in repressing evil, in administering discipline and in shaping the public sentiment of the school." * * * * *

This leverage of the student's body upon itself has been attained, and can be maintained only through a military organization.

No one can realize the full truth of the statements made above who has had no experience with this system in schools.

The time devoted to drill and other military exercises is not taken from the time which would otherwise be devoted to study, but it comes in as a part of their recreation and physical exercise. By this means, therefore, we get that much more time devoted to profitable and systematic training.

Our guns and accoutrements were purchased in New York City, and are the property of the school.

This department will continue to be conducted by Prof. G. M. Thomas, a graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, and the instruction principally of a practical nature will be given from Upton's Revised U. S. Army Infantry Tactics.

The daily routine of duty, for five days of each week, will be as follows:

A. M. 6 o'clock, Reveille.

6:30 o'clock, Breakfast, recreation until

8:45 o'clock, Devotional Exercises until

9 o'clock, Study and recitations until

11:30 o'clock, Drill until

P. M. 12:15 o'clock, Dinner and Recreation until

1:30 o'clock, Study and recitations until

4:15 o'clock, Recreation until

6 o'clock, Supper and recreation until.

7 o'clock, Study until.

9 o'clock, Preparation for retiring at 9:30 o'clock, Taps; all lights out.

Punctuality in meeting these appointments is demanded.

General Regulations.

No Cadet is permitted to leave the grounds within prohibited hours, without permission from the officers in charge.

Frequent inspections of quarters are made each day to see that they are kept in order.

On Saturday of each week any Cadet having an excess of demerits, will be required to study in his room, or perform Guard Duty, according to the nature of his offense.

All cadets are required to attend Sabbath School and to attend Church twice each Sunday in a body, under the escort of the officer in charge.

The association between the pupils and the teachers as well as their families will be made as close as possible, in order that good habits and manners may be cultivated, and that social qualities may be developed.

Loitering on the street during the day or absence from the school grounds at night will not be tolerated.

All temptation to engage in the evil practices so common among youth, will be removed as far as possible, and while thus guarding them we will try to implant such principles as will protect them when they, as men, have to face these dangers.

All these attentions are received only by the pupils from a distance who board with us. We, of course, have but little supervision over our day pupils outside of school hours; but while in school even these come under the full force of our discipline.

Buildings and Grounds.

The school building was originally intended for a church, but before its completion and after over $10,000 had been spent on the body of it, it was purchased and rearranged so as to be suitable for school work. It contains a large seating room and two recitation rooms below and a large assembly room and armory above. There are high ceilings and good ventilation throughout.

One square north from this are the new barracks. The location is one of the very best in the city; the grounds embracing nearly nine acres are elevated, covered with a rich growth of blue grass and lie in a very quiet and unfrequented part of the city.

The buildings consist of a neat brick two story residence of six rooms, and within a few feet of this a large two story brick house 50 feet by 64 feet containing 18 rooms, a large study hall and a spacious dining room.

The grounds are ample for drilling and for all kinds of sport, and the pupils will be constantly invited by such facilities to manly and health giving exercises.

Study Hall.

All boarding pupils are assembled every night except Sunday night, in a large hall which has been fitted up with desks, and here under the supervision of a teacher they prepare their lessons for the next day. This arrangement is of great advantage to all pupils, it stimulates to study those who if left to themselves would idle away their time, and those who are fond of study derive great benefit from the assistance judiciously rendered by the teacher present.

Boarding Department.

This part of the school is directly under the charge of the principal, and it is the feature of the school to which we invite special attention from those who do not live in or near Lexington. When young boys are sent from home, boys whose characters have not been formed, they need to be looked after, they need attention and protection.

Many a good boy will go astray if removed from parental oversight and government and none other be substituted. So greatly are we impressed with these facts, that we require all boys coming to us from a distance to board with us.

Teachers of the school and their families board here and occupy the same building with the pupils. They are thrown together constantly, in school and out of school, during study and during recreation. Much can be accomplished by this intercourse in cultivating good manners and in developing moral qualities, to say nothing of the influence upon intellectual development which results from the encouragement to study constantly received.

The principal, aided by his wife, by the matron and by all the teachers will try to make the place like a home to every boy.

Nearly all the apartments will be occupied by only two boys, as by this means more room for each will be obtained, and those unpleasant feelings and disorders consequent to the occupancy of one room by so many will be avoided.

Boys at boarding school are generally hard to please, yet no complaint has been made of our table. Plenty of wholesome food will always be furnished.

Religion.

This Academy, though non-sectarian, is under Christian influence, being controlled by the different evangelical religious denominations of Lexington and vicinity, through a board of trustees, required by the charter to be composed of members of these denominations.

It is further required that all teachers of this school be in good standing in some church.

Devotional exercises are held every morning before beginning the duties of the day. All boarding pupils will be required to attend the Sabbath school of their parents' selection; also to attend in a body accompanied by a teacher, the different churches in the city on Sabbath morning and night. Addresses will be delivered to the students from time to time by pastors of the different churches.

Uniform.

A Uniform of cadet gray will be worn by all who attend the school. The uniform selected is the most ECONOMICAL GENTLE CLOTHING the student can wear. These suits will be furnished by the clothing houses of Lexington. Careful measurements will be taken and accurate fits guaranteed. The cloth wears well and presents a good appearance as long as it lasts. The cost of the uniform, including cap, is from $16 to $22. For very small boys the cloth can be procured and the suits made by private contract for something less.

The uniform must be worn in all school duties. The Principal has no pecuniary interest in the matter, but after several experiments first with an optional uniform, next with a uniform while in the drill, we are convinced that the confusion and uncomeliness consequent upon having part of the students with uniform and part without can be avoided only by making it obligatory in all school exercises.

When a student's connection with the school ceases before the session, he must no longer wear the uniform in public.

Terms for Session of Ten Months.

FOR DAY PUPILS.

Lowest Grade Tuition.....	$ 30 00
Intermediate Grade Tuition.....	40 00
Highest Grade Tuition.....	50 00
Incidental Fees.....	8 00

FOR BOARDING PUPILS.

Board, Washing, Tuition and Incidental Fees.....	$220 00
--	----------

No extra charge for fuel or lights.

Half the amount is due when school opens, the balance on January 18.

A deposit of at least $10 should be made for the purchase of books and other school supplies.

Every pupil must be entered for the entire ten months or that part of it remaining when he commences, and, unless the pupil's health requires his removal, parents and guardians will be held responsible for both payments when they become due. We have learned from experience that if it be permitted parents will withdraw their children for the most trivial reasons, and we cannot afford to employ first-class teachers and pay them by the year with such fluctuations as this course on the part of patrons produces.

No deduction will be made for delay in entering unless the delay equal or exceed one month.

Refunding money paid for board and tuition in case of dismissal will be at the option of the Principal.

A reduction of one half on tuition will be made to the children of all persons regularly engaged in ministerial work, also to all candidates for the ministry. Arrangements can be made for assisting a few worthy young men without means who desire an education.

Outfit.

Every boarding pupil should have, in addition to what any one knows to be necessary, his own toilet articles, table napkins, a pair of sheets, two pillow-cases, a pair of blankets, a bag for soiled clothes, a pair of overshoes and a waterproof.

Standing collars only should be worn with the uniform.

All articles to be washed should be marked with indelible ink.

Special Remarks.

1. Let all read carefully our terms and requirements.
2. Let us be informed fully in regard to the boy's disposition and the character of the education intended for him.
3. Co-operate with us in our efforts to prevent extravagance by instructing business houses here not to let your sons run accounts.
4. Provide for all their necessary wants and furnish some small allowance monthly; we suggest not more than $2.
5. So much time is lost by visits home of boarding pupils, that we are compelled to limit them to once in two months.
6. Pupils should enter as near the beginning of the session as possible. It is very discouraging to enter after classes are all formed and have been reciting some time.
7. Let the parents of day pupils co-operate with us in preventing loss of time by non-attendance. This cannot be accomplished by our efforts unless aided and sustained by yours.
