WENTWORTH MILITARY ACADEMY

Once again, from the top . . .

If I save that, and with a little Elmer's . . .

There is no Room C-70!

I think it'll be a few years before I make general, Dad.

"The most fun-packed day of the year," was a sadist's opinion of Opening Day. Waiting in line to sneeze, filling out forms if your dog had died within the past 10 years, losing a life's growth of hair, unpacking, repacking, and general mass confusion.

Mothers shed as many tears and fathers have as many dreams as on their wedding day.

Meanwhile the New Boy is still trying to recover from the shock.

On my honor as a cadet officer . . .

Dad, I don't think I can handle Calc IV.

The eight ball is symbolic of the New Boy's original position. One long year is spent asking the $64,000 question, "How do I get out from behind it?"

Miserable details, long hours of seemingly fruitless practice, trying to listen to 10 people telling you to do 10 different things at the same time and reaching a point of frustration that makes you want to go berserk.

Trying to comprehend strange habits like using special doors, walking walls, folding your arms at the supper table and coming to attention in certain cadets' rooms.

The only feasible reason that a person would stay with it other than self-satisfaction would be to put next year's New Boys in the same spot.

Do you see the New Boy crouching behind?

Paul Coles wonders if he should crawl over or go around.

Shivering at noon formation is part of cadet life; so is military class.

The deans and the commandant can give helpful advice. All you need to do is ask; and they sometimes give it anyway.

Quiet! Scholars at work?

"Rest" means you can unfold your arms.

Lt. Van Horn guides his platoon toward the parade field.

View of Charlie Company from the Student Union window.

Did David Barr just break another bass drum?

Why did you just finesse your partner's queen?

Sorry, no Playboys or Hustlers sold in the QM, but the snack bar sells good pizza and shakes.

A favorite starting point for skateboarders.

Leisure time. A scarce commodity in a constantly busy schedule.

Most cadets find good use for it. A little horseplay, the game of kings, a good book, or a chance to press some sheets in a beauty nap.

Whether used for fair or foul purposes, it will always be the favorite time of day.

The dealer is always right at the APO's Monte Carlo dance.

Idle hands are the devil's workshop.

14 in the corner.

The Red Dragons battled the MMA Colonels to a Homecoming tie.

Athletics. That one time of day when rank and longevity mean nothing. A chance to let natural ability shine through, and to let off some steam at the same time.

This is where respect is earned, not designated.

The all-school soccer team plays nearby colleges.

Capt. Butler and Mike Reynolds give a demonstration of karate skills.

Turner goes into the air for a jump ball.

Mike Reynolds and Bill Hughes burst through the hoop.

The MS-III's take to the water in fatigues and boots to demonstrate survival techniques.

Why did I trade XO for CO?

Photo finish.

Hello, Mom?

Fire!

Military training — the aspect that makes Wentworth unique. At least two hours a week of classroom instruction plus weekly drill and field exercises are among the methods Army personnel use in teaching cadets.

When the weather improved, classes on rappelling, orienteering and first aid were taught in class as well as during drill.

Drill is referred to as Leadership Laboratory, but the true lab is in the barracks, where cadets are given the responsibility for each other and learn leadership through experience.

Sgt. Maj. Jones teaches the military classroom segment on first aid.

There's nothing like a dame!

Going on line for Parents Weekend parade

"I'm very casual."

What would be the results of a survey asking the question, "What was the most special event of the year?" There would be as many answers as cadets.

Was it the battalion sleepthrough after Lt. Col. Reinhardt won the Ugly Man contest? Or maybe the Wentworth Show? Parents Weekend? Homecoming? Performing the Snap Drill before thousands of spectators?

Or was it just one of the dances where there was a special girl?

What was special to one person was probably just one day closer to Commencement for another.

Definite improvement, Morris!

Get up and boogie.

Just another day . . .

Mrs. Boyer explains cellular osmosis.

Charlie Company polices the stadium.

High school cadets can take welding at the local Vo Tech school.

Being an Old Boy has its advantages.

the ones a cadet remembers.

Break between classes on a crisp autumn morning.

Demerits — Wentworth's answer to public school detention.

"Wentworth, Wentworth."

Better service than Tidee-Dee.

YOUR FIRST 2 YEARS OF COLLEGE CAN BE YOUR FIRST 2 YEARS OF LEADERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT

This summer you can begin two years of leadership and management education to complement your college program. Then, upon graduation, enter a position of instant management responsibility as an officer in the active Army, National Guard or Reserve. The ROTC commissioning program starts with six weeks of summer training at Fort Knox, Ky., with over $500 pay. (If you have three years of JROTC, you need not attend.)

You'll learn what it takes to be a soldier, to have your body toughened and your confidence developed.

Do well and you can qualify for Army ROTC courses in the fall. Do exceptionally well and you may be heading to West Point with a two-year full tuition scholarship.

For the next two years you will learn what it takes to be an Army officer. You'll be challenged both mentally and physically. You'll get the kind of management experience that will be an asset to you in any career, military or civilian.

You'll receive an extra $100 a month for up to twenty months and about $500 for advanced camp between your first and second years. When you graduate, you will have earned your associate degree along with the gold bars of a second lieutenant.

You can then either complete your baccalaureate degree and apply for active duty, or immediately attend the officer's basic course and become an active member of an Army Reserve or National Guard unit.

ARMY ROTC LEARN WHAT IT TAKES TO LEAD

To learn more about the Army ROTC program, contact: Military Department, West Point Military Academy, West Point, New York 10996; or telephone (816) 259-2219.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Fathers of players line up with their sons before the football game.

J.R. and J.R.

Dress right, dress!

Commander Ed Ellis entertains at the banquet.

The Fall Weekend honoring fathers was probably the best organized special weekend in anyone's recollection.

The banquet turned into a pep rally for the football team. Moving the banquet to Friday night gave cadets more free time with their fathers (a change that has been needed for years).

Strong competition in the Dad's Drill made it well worth watching. Mike and Mark Johnson's dad finally pulled out a victory.

Career Day didn't leave you bored to death, but on the contrary, started you thinking.

A well-played football game highlighted the entire weekend, despite a 22-16 loss to Orrick.

Col. Sellers Sr. makes his traditional Dads Day comments.

Stop at the bank, I need some cash.

HOMECOMING

Old Boys were given the chance to reminisce and visit with each other and with cadets during Homecoming weekend. The pep rally and bonfire on Friday night were sentimental experiences for the seniors especially.

The game was well fought but poorly executed and a disappointment to all.

The dance was excellent, and Mrs. Shockley was bombarded with requests to have the band return.

We've got spirit, yes, we do.

It is 1625 hours and you are just getting out of the mess hall. Your platoon leader yells that you've got five minutes to do what you need to do and get back outside.

You are now standing in the freezing cold with the rest of the corps waiting to get on the buses. Someone finally gives the signal to start loading. One bus driver decides he is not going to open his door. You get the feeling that he doesn't like cadets.

The other buses are loaded and you wait until Maj. Myers cons the bus driver to open his door and let you on. Then there is the big fight for seats. You finally get settled down and the bus starts moving. All of a sudden a voice comes over the radio and says, "We've got us a convoy."

When you wake up the buses have stopped and the bus commander is yelling at you to get back out in the cold. Your platoon leader marches you around the building to find a door to get inside. When you get inside you are in a hall. You are told to remember this spot to return to when they tell you over the loudspeakers.

WENTWORTH SHOW

The Machine

"Stop pushing!"

Florida, here we come!

Capt. Blocker, on parade

The band warms up the audience with a pre-show concert.

Turn on my mike!

Clownin' around

General Wroth reviews the corps.

THE SHOW

The commanders then release you and you run to the restroom. You decide to get a drink. At the concession stand you choke on the prices, settle for water and go find a seat in the auditorium.

You start to doze off when you are awakened by the band blasting Star Wars theme and Dr. Davis speaking over the microphone. You doze back off and are suddenly awakened by a blood-curdling scream. From your state of sheer terror you discover that it's only some karate guy breaking a poor innocent board in the karate act.

When you wake up next, someone is telling you it's time for the parade and you begin wandering around the hall to find that spot that they told you to remember and you have forgotten. You start marching again and you see all these people around you and you wonder if they came to see you or to throw paper airplanes at you.

They announce that a real one-star general is there to take a look at you.

When it's all over and you get back on the bus, it looks as though every one except you checked out on weekend pass or furlough because you are one of only five people on the bus. You must have gone to sleep because the driver is telling you it is time to get off. So you crawl off the bus and crawl into your own special Wentworth bed, to wake up to a lonely Wentworth weekend with the same old routine.

Mosquitoes are murder this year.

Precision Honor Guard

Time-tested snap drill

The photographer came at a dead run, but he was too late to catch the cannon's boom.

The mysterious 20-year-old recruiting film, kept securely under lock and key in the administration building, never exposed to a cadet, was discovered when Maj. Kemper dropped a quarter in the vault. When it was reviewed, it was decided that a new film was in order.

Lights! Camera! Action! Cut! Take 193. Charlie tries another run at the camera yelling some stupid airborne cadence. At least it got us out of class for a day.

Since the filming was done during the same week of AFI and Military Ball, we felt that simply surviving this week was a special event.

Headquarters Company marched up the hill and then marched down again, and again, and again.

The drum quartet entertains at the Variety Show.

SPRING WEEKEND

Finger licking good!

The future S-6

Almost as good as eye of newt and goat's milk.

Who are the big brothers and who are the little ones?

Who could forget, "If you want barracks guard, it will cost you $5." And what about Lt. "Who" Burns.

How about when the basketball team slept through after away games and couldn't find their way to their first class. And don't forget the scurves . . . you know who you are.

Remember when Soso lost his mind when the tornado warning was under effect. Col. Gant was aware of the fire extinguishers empty on Monday morning. Maj. Maring had to watch Keating when he was checking out the butter under the table.

How about the time when Wojo went swimming in his room. Or when Chip and Dale enterprises was the best thing going on campus. Cottey College sure knows all about that.

Who could forget all the missing Holiday Inn keys found in drawers of any room. What about all the cars that mysteriously disappeared in the middle of the night. Or answering the phone to find out it's Mitchell calling to pick him up because he blew an engine.

Remember how dangerous it was to walk in Harlem after taps. And when the contract students got lost while orienteering and Capt. Kuhn knew why.

Or how Wales always was finding the guilty party in the middle of the night. The best nights were when Hatchitt had O.C. duty. Grubbs will remember the mailbox and the skateboard.

But we appreciated all the staff privates Col. Gant gave us. But would McBarker please take a count.

Bill Klumper, shining the railing.

CHARGING CHARLIE

Company commander Brian (Buford) Wales

Company staff Angove, Reynolds, Van Horn and Orvis

Robb Dobbs sets the pace.

Remember during the football games when somebody hit a cop in the head with a Kiwi bottle. And the time when Daugherty glued Gardner's lips together with crazy glue. What about the time when Purvis chased Knight with a saber when Maj. Ogawa was in the room.

Let's not forget the time when M. M. A. got dumped. Or the time we had the fire and we woke everybody but Ogawa. Or when Wales became C.O. and nobody knew who he was. And we threw walnuts at the corps after marching out of the mess hall and hit Klumper in the head.

Remember the cadence blink to the left, blink to the right. And what about the time when Wales came through with a master key and all the cadets were in for a big surprise.

And don't forget the time when we worked for five days for A. F. I. and he stayed 30 seconds in each room. And on Wales' birthday we threw him in the shower three times and then tied him up in his room.

What about the time we had our fight with Echo and then went to Hollywood. Maintenance refused to work on the barracks and the laundry refused to wash our clothes. And Johnson used to half-step around the barracks. The thermostat got busted and we went without heat for a week.

What about the time when Knight and Schultheis had a four foot snake and it got loose in the barracks and everyone thought it was poisonous. Or when Van Horn drove Wales' Trans Am in the river. Or the time Capt. Stretz got ketchup on top of his head.

We have to admit we had some good times and the time this is being written we still have eight more days left. Klumper is O.C. tonight, and 10 years from now you will have to look back and remember what happened, because if I know Charlie, something will.

I hope this is the National Honor Society assembly so I can catch up on my sleep.

DELTA

Remember the night that Zambrano painted himself with glow-in-the-dark paint and climbed into people's rooms at 3 a.m. Oh, and remember the day that the company staff got thrown in the showers.

Don't forget the time that Headquarters threw the shaving cream bombs in Delta and we made them wash the halls. Or the Delta six that thought it was a good idea to throw golf balls at a car.

Or the night when Delta iced down the walkway in front of the Student Union and half the battalion fell down the hill after laundry formation.

And don't forget the four cadets who got pulled away from a dance to write this paper!

Delta, Delta; Leads the way, hey!

I wish I were a first sergeant so I could take someone's jumprope.

Who're you calling a pigeon-toed squirt?

Rough life in an executive position.

That last one was no good. Start again.

Wentworth food — Army style

ECHO

Winner by a heel

Remember Rader's out-of-tune cadences, and Blocker's people-pleaser and P.T.

Can you ever forget O'Connor's and Callahan's most unclean room, or when we threw the entire company in the shower.

How about the way Rader pronounced Aguilera's name, or Spencer's nightly coughing fits, or Cardenas' threats to get Julian bumped off.

Then there was the door slamming at the beginning of the year, the dunking in beds, and the shaving cream bombs.

There was Echo's mile relay team, and the time Meulbroek fell out the upstairs window, and Holt's ferociousness.

FOXTROT

Remember at the beginning of the year when everybody thought that Capt. Driscoll was a senior in high school and it turned out that he was in eighth grade and 14 years old.

Or when all the company staff and counselors went mad with giving saber swats and the company looked sharp for a week.

Remember when nobody knew how to tie a necktie and did not want to learn.

And how hard it was to get everyone to take a shower.

Or when the junior high football team came back from a game and the question was "How bad did you lose?"

And when preparing for G1, boys found under their beds the dust that had accumulated during the year and all the things they thought had been stolen!

We must not forget the night when the counselors and C.O. were restless and got everybody up at 1 a.m. and told them that the electricity had been off all night and that it was five minutes until outside and they all started getting dressed and going outside while the counselors and C.O. went to bed.

How about the time down in the woods when Capt. Driscoll did NOT get shot in the leg.

Remember how muddy Sobotka got on the Boy Scout campout.

Or when Col. Gant could not figure out why cadets were feeding King Littlejohn out in the hall during a detail.

All these and a lot more are why we will never forget junior high at W.M.A.

HEADQUARTERS

Remember the first band trip to Concordia when we picked up a police escort on the way back.

Can't forget the time when Haynes got upset and engraved Cook's head into the radiator. Or what about the Royal's pre-game incident on the quadrangle between Rog and Doc?

Nobody will forget when Jesse Porter played backstop for Zorro Samuel . . . or the night before G.I. when Kilbane slid down the hall wearing nothing at all.

Who knows when Shreff goes to bed?

Does anybody remember the time that Lardie went spastic on Slaughter . . . or when Cook and Goodall had their daily naps in the middle of inspection?

Nobody can forget the time Perry and Webster had the shaving cream bomb incident with Delta, or the time Gordon clobbered our battalion X.O. upside the head.

Do you remember the time Samuel and Montellano got accused of ripping off a grain elevator, which had nothing but chicken feed in it. . . and Shreff's favorite expressions.

Do you remember the time Samuel went on a diet . . . Neither do we.

The band performs at the American Royal after winning a division first in the parade.

The color guard leads the Homecoming parade through the streets of Lexington.

The percussion quartet won No. 1 ratings in all contests.

Jeff Grant receives the Arion award.

Sellers receives the Best Old Boy; Green and Wilks tie for Best New Boy.

It looks like disorganized confusion, but it's just the routine start of another band trip.

The band warms up before its performance at Crown Center.

Is it true that drummers have more fun?

SPORTS

H.S. FOOTBALL

Dragons set for a charge:

McNeely cuts against the grain for more mileage.

Kilbane sees things Coach Butherus' way during a time out.

Surrounded!

Coach Pappas assists his defensive unit from the sideline.

Smith shows the excellence that earned him All-Conference end two years in a row.

The season's first game was played in Alumni Stadium against Norborne (who took the conference title this year). Norborne managed to come back from an 8-8 tie to win 13-8.

The first string met Lone Jack on their field to conjure up a 22-0 lead in the first period. Second string ended the game 30-0. With a couple of the first line players out, the best the Dragons could muster was a 0-0 tie with Hardin-Central. They did no better against Braymer. A bleak day didn't make a 12-8 loss easier to take.

Orrick came for a battle, and they got it. They still managed to upset Wentworth 21-18.

"Christmas came early for MMA!" Coach Butherus growled at Homecoming. A 6-6 tie in a game that should have read 36-6 induced the comment.

A cold, rainy night at Polo ended the season for the Dragons. But there were never 30 happier guys when there was no time on the clock and the scoreboard had "Home 0, Visitor 18."

McNeely and Hughes demonstrate the buddy system.

The junior high football team has had a good record this year. It was composed of cadets who wanted to play. This year the credit goes to the coaches, Capt. Paul Harbison and Capt. John Riley.

Through the season there were some defeats and some victories, but the players learned the meaning of team spirit. That's what the game is really about.

Steffee makes a crushing tackle.

Chase dives for a tackle.

Perry Revlett examines an injured player.

J.H. FOOTBALL

Greg Andler catches a punt.

Dan Reinhardt passes for a badly needed first down.

SOCCER

Again the soccer team had a losing year. But halfway through the season, when some dissidents left the team, morale improved and so did the games.

There were not very many games on the schedule. The teams we played were all either four-year or two-year colleges. The Wentworth team is an all-school team with both high school and college players.

There were several outstanding players: Al Saud and Al Salloom on the offense and Halter for the defense.

The coach was Capt. Norman Thibodeau who did an outstanding job.

Al Salloom, one of the top players, shows off some of the fancy footwork for which he is famous.

Al Saud trots happily away after a goal.

Adversaries close in for the conflict.

First row: Wenlock, R. Young, Millican, Steinshouer, Traulsen, Aquilera; Second row: Kemper, Ackert, Gordon, Traub, Wurthman, Hines; Third row: Al Salim, Halter, Macias, Petty, P. Walsh, Pastorello, Coach Thibodeau.

Gordon races an opponent to the ball.

Pastorello pulls ahead and runs for the goal.

J.C. BASKETBALL

First row: Turner, Taylor, Barnes, Austin, Blocker, Young, Easley; Back row: Coach Paul Harbison, Eskew, Revlett, Guy, Albaugh, Grimes, Johnson, Myers, Samuelson, Head coach Jim Eskew, Fountain, Jones.

Young shoots for one at the line.

Turner demonstrates his leaping abilities.

My elbow won't affect you as much as my basket will.

Junior college basketball at Wentworth in years past has been regarded as just another activity to keep the guys busy. But over the past two years, Maj. Jim Eskew has been attempting to vanquish such an idea from the minds of both spectators and cadets. This year's team, despite its 11-16 record, proved to be one of the best in a number of years.

With the transfer of Jerry Barnes and Hugh Turner and the addition of freshmen to last year's seasoned players, Wentworth was not intending to "play dead." Many teams which beat Wentworth in the past without breaking any apparent sweat found themselves doing more than sweating to win.

Elements which made this year's team one of the best in a number of years were both hustle and enthusiasm exercised not only during practice sessions but also actual games as well. The intent to win was also a contributing factor, which was reinforced through the large number of supporters present at each game.

The spirit is strong and the will to win is present. Next year's team will offer more exciting games and those cliff-hangers will move over to the win column.

Paul, get that official out of there.

Barnes shows why he's No. 1 in the district.

H.S. BASKETBALL

Slaughter and Filmore battle for the ball as Smith watches.

Rader sets it up.

Newman sinks it for two.

Front row: Rader, Newman, Smith, Courtney; Second row: Eskew, Pastorello, Fish, Kilbane, M. Carter, B. Carter; Third row: Coach Thibodeau, Richart, Tucker, Stanley, Filmore, McNeely, Selzer, Reinhardt, Coach Edwards.

The Dragons dominate the boards.

Coach Edwards and Coach Thibodeau take a quick look at half-time statistics.

Whoosh!

Softshot Slaughter up and in for two.

Even though the Dragons had individual skills and talents, they finished the first semester with low morale and many losses.

As second semester came up, so did the Dragons, picking up many wins.

As the year ended, Wentworth had taken Tri-Mil Champs and finished fourth in the conference. Bill Newman averaged an amazing 17.8 points per game, with Gene McNeely at 13.6, Jeff Kilbane at 9.3 and Barry Smith at 8.2 points per game.

J.H. BASKETBALL

This junior high basketball season was very tough considering that all the players were New Boys this year. They did better than expected, learning basic skills that are essential for playing basketball in the future.

The Wentworth Dragons' wrestling team has had a hard go of things this year but has emerged with a five-four won/lost record. Wentworth has also won five of the nine duals it has entered.

The "A" team consists of Greg Otten, weight 105, won 4, lost 4; Phil Daugherty, weight 112, 2-2; Kevin Roderick, weight 119, 4-3; Dave Stroy, weight 126, 4-4; Curt Berkland, weight 132, 11-1; Bob Schultheis, weight 138, 3-3; Chris Scott, weight 145, 4-2; Raul Zambrano, weight 155, 8-3; Pat Helvie, weight 167, 2-0; Bob Kelly, weight 185, 2-2; Mike Reynolds, heavy weight, 8-4.

The swim team got off to a fast start this year. The first meet was only two weeks after the team was organized.

Under the supervision of Maj. Steve Sellers, cadet Maj. Bill Klumper and team captain Mike Johnson, the team worked hard. Although we weren't too successful this year, we'll be back next year.

The Honor Guard was not a company this year so that officers from other companies could join. The Guard had a change of commanders when Capt. Blocker moved to Echo Company and Lt. Edwards took over.

Perhaps because of these changes and others made during the year, the Honor Guard did not win any awards. But next year with a new routine and a new sponsor and fresh determination, the Guard can win back some of those awards and become the supreme unit it once was.

This job produces more ulcers than the Commandant.

MILITARY

LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

The duty of the battalion staff is to keep the battalion running smoothly. They plan and oversee Corps activities, consolidate demerit reports, supervise cadet waiters and medical staff, and supervise supply.

The ROTC detachment consists of regular Army personnel stationed at Wentworth for a tour of duty. They conduct the ROTC training and insure that the military organization of cadets runs smoothly.

Battalion staff headed by Cadet Lt. Col. Mike Reinhardt marches onto the parade field.

CAMP CLARK

In September the MS-IV's, MS-III's and LD-4's spent two days at Camp Clark, an Army Reserve base near Nevada, Mo.

The MS-IV's flew down in an Army chinook helicopter while the rest made the trip by bus.

Weekend activities included a lecture on what to do in case of nuclear attack, visits to a field bakery, laundry and shower unit, firing 45 caliber pistols and M-16 rifles. The highlight was a trip into a small tear gas-filled building, where each cadet was instructed to remove his gas mask, state his name and school, and then run out the door. Pause for eyes to stop watering and for all coughing to cease!

Camp Clark visitors hurry up and wait.

BLACK BERETS

The Black Berets are cadets unusually proficient in military skills. Members of the Black Berets act as assistant instructors during leadership laboratory periods and are allowed to wear the ROTC black beret with all uniforms.

To become a member, you must receive a score of 440 or higher on the advanced PT test and satisfactorily complete the Ranger swimming test. You must satisfactorily complete the day and night orienteering courses and also master the art of rappelling while maintaining an academic average of "C" or higher and a military average of "B" or higher.

DRILL

After spring break the Military Department, under the direction of the PMS, Lt. Col. Robert Coombs, conceived a new and exciting drill schedule to end the boredom of just marching around and doing weapons manual so much.

Drill has been divided into four main sections so that cadets can attend something different each week. The sections are squad and platoon drill competition for the school drill meet held Saturday, April 8. Sgt. Bob Bauman of Charlie had the best squad and Lt. Guy Spencer of Delta had the best platoon in the Corps.

There was also physical training practice to get cadets in shape for the PT test held May 4.

Then there was the exciting art of rappelling from the new rappelling tower.

All this was interrupted by practices for the major events of the spring, such as AFI, Military Ball and, last but not least, Commencement.

Under this new program cadets competed in drill and physical training events for regulation junior and senior ROTC ribbons for the uniform and points for the Lowrey plaque.

What do I do next?

And they're off and running!

Run, Ernie, run!

Hang in there, baby!

Right flank, march.

Cadet Mike Courtney receives the first place award in the Individual Drill competition.

STATE DRILL MEET

The Honor Guard finishes its performance.

Military schools individual weapons drill provides stiff competition.

The Missouri State Drill Meet was held here again this year and schools from all over the state of Missouri came to perform. The meet was divided into five divisions: high school with weapons; high school without weapons; military institute with weapons; women's division without weapons and individual drill competition.

Good morning, gentlemen.

INSPECTION

Looks like spring cleaning.

How do you like Wentworth?

ANNUAL FEDERAL INSPECTION

What is your function, cadet?

Notice, no dirt.

Looks like Mr. Clean was here!

The Annual Federal Inspection was on April 19 this year. It actually started about two weeks before, with floor scrubbing and police details to get the barracks and campus spotless.

You have to memorize your military definitions and march the best you can and look your sharpest. The morning of the inspection everything is shining from the brass on the uniforms to the bathroom floor.

At 10:45 the inspectors started in the barracks with people yelling, "I see them coming" and rushing to make last minute adjustments and company staff telling you to stand by your bed at attention.

When the company commander finally calls the company to attention it seems like forever for them to get to your room. Your muscles in your stomach tighten up. An inspector walks in your room, looks around, then stares at you for a while; then he asks you where you are from and you have a hard time answering such a simple question.

After DRC you go to the in-ranks inspection with everything perfectly shined and prepared for the worst. While your feet burn and you feel as though you are going to faint, he comes in front of you and asks you several questions and moves down the line. You wait what seems to be eternity until the inspection is over.

Then comes the final parade. You know it's almost over. Time seems to stand still from "Forward march" until your company commander dismisses you.

When it is all over, you know that you can go through anything, and it's one more day down to commencement.

CONGRATULATIONS!

To the 1977-78 Corps of Cadets
Wentworth Military Academy

FOX HOLLOW

A black and white photograph of two young men in military uniforms marching on a paved surface. The man on the left is in the lead, wearing a dark uniform with a peaked cap and a belt, and is holding a mace. The man on the right is slightly behind him, also in a dark uniform with a peaked cap, and is holding a flag. In the background, there is a building with a porch and several people standing on the steps.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

An all-school Scholar's Banquet was held for the first time this spring. Special Distinction students received steak and brownies a la mode for their mental prowess.

Rats Day was its usual rowdy fun.

Rex Sobotka took over as B.C. for the day. Tyrone doesn't look bad with three pips.

Company commanders line up on stage to receive their plaques and applause for a job well done.

Mr. Ed Bates, Wentworth alum and insurance executive, delivered the commencement address.

The last processional for Wentworth seniors occurred at 2 p.m. Sunday and was recorded for the recruiting movie.

MAY 21

Lt. Col. Coombs commissions new officers for the U.S. Army: Tom Walsh, '78, Mike Bechtold, '76, Ken Clark, '76, Terry Blessing, '76.

Kevin Patterson, '76, former battalion commander, assists Col. Sellers Sr. in awarding the Burr Award to . . .

Mike Reinhardt, who walks offstage to the sound of applause . . .

. . . and receives a standing ovation from the Corps.

The cannon fires for the last parade of the year.

Bill Klumper receives the Messmore Honor Graduate award from Col. Sellers Jr.

Final moments are considered seriously . . .

. . . and not so seriously.
