Being a cadet is not always easy

As a first year cadet, the military side of the academy is practically new. Learning all the ranks and knowing who is in your chain of command can cause confusion, especially when sounding off to higher cadets. Many will be homesick, but there are plenty of activities a new cadet does that will help ease that homesickness. At a military school, new cadets are always busy—mostly cleaning rooms and shining uniforms.

Not to worry, friends are made for life at this academy.

Friendships that are made during the time spent here at Wentworth are memories that will never be forgotten. Alumni come back to the Academy year after year. They always talk about their friends and the memories they created. Throughout the rest of their lives, cadets will look back on their days at Wentworth and cherish the times they had. No matter how they experienced life at WeWo, there will always be something to miss about it. Remember the friends you made and how being a cadet helped to make you a better person.

"being a cadet helped to make you a better person"

HISTORY OF WENTWORTH MILITARY ACADEMY

In 1880 a public spirited banker of Lexington, Mr. Stephen G. Wentworth, made a donation of money and property to found Wentworth Male Academy. During the first year of its existence it was guided by two men, Benjamin L. Hobson and Sanford Sellers. Sellers remained to guide the school for 58 years until his death.

In 1882, at the behest of the students, military training became a part of their activities. Wentworth was the first military school west of the Mississippi River and is one of the nation's oldest and most respected military schools - "The flagship of military academies."

At its inception Wentworth was a day school available only to young men from the Lexington area. A boarding department was soon organized. Accreditation was granted by the University of Missouri in 1886. In 1890, the official name was changed to Wentworth Military Academy. Recognition was granted by the United States Army in 1895.

In 1914, the Association of Military Schools and Colleges was organized in Washington, D.C., and a system of annual inspection by officers from the War Department was inaugurated to determine which ten of the schools inspected would be designated honor schools. Wentworth was one of the original ten selected and has, with the exception of one short interval, maintained that classification ever since. Wentworth is currently designated an honor unit with distinction.

Wentworth Military Academy is a private non-profit corporation controlled by a self-perpetuating Board of Trustees. The school has no affiliation with any religious group or other organization. The non-profit corporation status has existed since 1951.

A unique aspect of Wentworth is the continuity of its administration. A total of 223 years of devoted service to Wentworth is represented by the leadership of the first president Colonel Sanford Sellers, his son Colonel J.M. Sellers, and superintendents Colonel Sanford Sellers, Jr., Colonel L.B. Wikoff, Colonel L.H. Ungles, and Colonel J.M. Sellers, Jr. Father, son and grandson, Sanford Sellers, J.M. Sellers and J.M. Sellers, Jr., span the history of Wentworth for one hundred and one years from 1880 until 1991.

Among the long list of distinguished alumni are General William Hoge, Congressman Ike Skelton, naturalist Marlin Perkins, Ambassador Charles Price, director/producer Robert Altman, physicist William Schwartz and retailer James "Bud" Walton.

Wentworth is located in the historic community of Lexington, Missouri, forty miles east of Kansas City, near the junction of Highways 24 and 13. The campus site occupies 137 acres with the southern three-fourths of the property accommodating all of the buildings, outdoor track and parade grounds, stadium, athletic practice fields, formation areas and tennis courts.

Wentworth Military Academy was designated a Historic District and placed on the National Register of Historic Places on November 24, 1980.

Campus Life at WMA

Campus life has a totally different meaning when it comes to the Corps of Cadets. It's not only what happens during school, but what happens when we go back home. Our homes being the barracks. There is always something going on that the Corps of Cadets gets involved with. Campus clean-up days, weekly parades, and white glove room inspections are only a few of the many campus activities. Campus life is not just a school thing but a whole different life.

The Corps cheers on the basketball team.

Delta Company shows campus pride during extra duty time.

Nothing beats a parade on a sunny day.

Academic Life at WMA

Math, Science, History, English, all make up the basic studies offered at Wentworth. Students from all over the world come to Wentworth for academic purposes. This would give a teacher a hard time knowing their skill level and language. Not to worry, teachers at Wentworth Military Academy are well prepared to meet the challenge. Cadets are more willing to learn when they know that the teacher cares, which makes class more educational.

Company Life at WMA

Company pride is what makes a company strive to be the best. Each company competes throughout the year to see who would be the best. Only the Basore Award would determine the the best of the best. Room and personal inspections, parades, punishment orders, and grades decide the winner. It is up to the companies to come up with the master plan to win.

The band packs up their gear for the long bus ride to VMI.

COMPANY COMMANDERS LETTER

Delta Company:

Fellow dawgs, I hope you have a great year. I hope you learn how to work as a team, be organized, obtain self-discipline, and most importantly, be proud of something that you believe: the dawg pound. I'm very proud of every single one of you. When I was down you stood right there by me and you all supported each other. Well, the year went fast. We had good times as well as bad ones. But we always did our job. We came from many different places, different countries, states, cities, etc. We came together to form the 1996-97 Delta company.

I hope you had a good year and I wish the best for every single one of you. Take every opportunity in life to be a better person. Thanks to my staff who supported me the whole year, and thanks to the dawg pound for keeping the tradition going.

Remember, wherever you go you will always be a dawg, and you will always be part of the Delta family.

Brothers Forever, Dawgs for Life

The Dogfather,
Cpt. Antonio Passariello

To the Trot:

It seems like it was yesterday that I was brought to Foxtrot as a platoon sergeant in first platoon. I first thought to myself, what have I gotten myself into. Well, my thoughts rapidly changed as the first hour passed. I found that I had finally found my home in the best company on campus. At the time, C/CPT Brian Gerber was the company commander and he constantly instilled in you the values of leadership. At the same time, ISG Mallow took other approaches in persuading you to value leadership.

That year expired and we then moved into the 1996-97 school year with high hopes. We returned to our home in Marine Hall for a short visit and began to function well together. When we finally got in our rhythm, we were pulled from our home and put in another barracks. With high hopes that after Christmas we would move out of East Barracks, we took the adjustment well. When second semester started, Hickman Hall would be our final place to live. It seemed that we could never get jump-started during the late months of the year. But there is one thing we did accomplish and that was to pull together as a company. We always stood up for one another and lived by the words we said every time we rendered a salute "Stay and Fight."

Let me close by saying that I am proud of every person who fell in with Foxtrot this year. You worked very hard all year. You earned my respect as your company commander and I hope you go on to do bigger and better things. Remember that you are part of a legacy that started with Gerber and Malloy, and will continue to be followed for years to come. I thank you for all the good times, bad times, sad times, and most of all, the proud times. You may not know it, but each and everyone of you grew into men, and if you pass on that knowledge that you acquired you will become a great leader in everything you do. Remember, I always had faith in you, even in times when it didn't seem possible. Lastly, thanks to Duffy, Hidden, Webster, Anderson, Schaffer, Messerli, Hayes, the rest of my cadre, and my squad leaders.

Thanks for all the memories. You were my family and it was my honor to be your commander and watch you mature.

C/CPT Dub K. Ramsey
